True poetry should

enlighten us,
encourage us,
and they
inspire us since they help us to understand why our unsaved loved one is so hard-

headed and seemingly bulletproof
when it comes to spirituality
and the Word of God. These things should
encourage us
because we begin to understand that someone else's salvation does not depend upon us or the skill of our presentation of the beauty and bounty of human life. Nothing could be further from the real truth. This book of poetry "REVISIT" penned by Williamsji Maveli is a unique, whimsical, and eclectic collection of soulful poems. It contains some very poignant moments and vibrant attention to detail. These exquisite poems focus on subjects about love in life. Like in any other part of the world, rivers hold a unique place in the Indian revolution and literature. These rivers are a source of livelihood for various fishermen in the state of Kerala in India and are, therefore, nothing less than a blessing. With as many as over forty-four rivers in the state, there is no doubt why this place is called God's own country. This novel focuses on the consequences and after-effects of the national emergency declared in India.

It was my intention to publish this third volume of the 'Knit India through Literature' project, compiling works from Konkani, Marathi, Gujarati and Sindhi languages which are spoken in Western India, in the year 2002. There are three primary reasons why this did not happen. The first reason was that I was actively involved in serialising my novels on Madras Doordarshan and Sun TV, which were received very well by the public and even won the Best Serial awards. With a view to adding to the glory of the Tamil language, I went about the task of compiling the best short stories of sixty senior Tamil writers, the unique feature of which was that the short stories were selected as their best by the respective writers themselves, and publishing them in two volumes. This is the second reason. There is yet another reason, which I shall come to later. Although both the earlier mentioned tasks were accomplished in a most satisfactory manner, I was really unhappy because my attention was diverted and that resulted in the progress of the 'Knit India through Literature' project being delayed.

Anyway, the last two years events have proved to me that my decision not to write fiction, which would certainly divert and occupy my time, for the past ten years, ever since I started work on the 'Knit India through Literature' project, is indeed right. However, at this juncture when this volume compiling the Western languages is ready for release, it heartens me that I have already finished my interviews with the Punjabi writers and begun preliminary work on the Kashmiri language as well. This gives me hope that my volume on the North Indian languages will be released as per schedule. As I sit down to write the preface for this volume, my thoughts go back to the pain of a loss - the sad and sudden demise of Sri. G.K. Moopnar - that I suffered two years ago. It was the Late G.K. Moopnar who was a great source of encouragement to me and proclaimed at the launch of the 'Knit India through Literature' project, that my victory was his own. His support was not merely verbal and in fact he supported the publishing of the first volume of 'Knit India through Literature' financially and also bought three hundred copies of the volume and distributed them to school libraries at free of cost. I wish to acknowledge his contribution at this stage and also pray that his blessings will help me bring out the fourth volume successfully too. I have already elaborated in the prefaces to the earlier volumes, the difficulties encountered in going and meeting the different language writers in their own homes, interviewing them and then transcribing the tapes. Differences in pronunciation and other problems caused a few factual errors to creep in when the volume on the eastern languages was published and this was pointed out by the concerned writers. In order to avoid this. I made it a point to send the compiled interviews to the concerned writers requesting them to check for factual errors. Most of the writers were gracious enough to respond to the request immediately and sent back the corrected interviews at the earliest. This is the most important third reason for the delay in this volume being published. Of the writers whom I met in Western India, the affection and care displayed by the Konkani and the Gujarati writers is truly unique. Having realised that it was quite expensive to have to travel to each state

atleast thrice or four times, the Konkani writers invited me to attend a literary meet organised at Goa and address the gathering. Senior Oriya writer 'Manoj Das' information filled foreword lends to the quality of this volume. I would like to express my heartfelt thanks to him and all others who have supported me and extended their co-operation in the publication of this volume. - Sivasankari	CHENNAI August 2003 Revisit Pearson Education India At our every walk in the pathway of our life, we come across moments. With extraordinary range and power, the poems build into a meditation on hybridity, intermarriage and love - what meaning we find in the world, in art, and in each other. Crossing the bounds of time, race and language, this is an enthralling exploration of self and place, of migration and inheritance, and introduces an unmistakable new voice in British poetry. Students' Britannica India: S to Z (Shath to Zurvan) Sarup & Sons

Poetry is not old, fragile, and intellectual. Poetry is stronger and fresher than we all believe. It is imaginative, alluring and elegant in all its attributes and sketches of realities of life. A word makes us to think on a thought. A sentence makes us to feel a sentiment. Thus, poetry makes us to feel an emotion. Poetry is not a revolving sphere of human emotions encountered during our lifetime. Instead, it is altogether, the nurturing emotions which have become an escape from all kinds of human emotions, it is collective clusters of anxieties and despairs encountered during the journey of human life. A good poetry is the chiseled marble of gifted language. It is a paint-spattered work of art by the poet himself using words instead of paint, and a colorful sketch on a broad life canvas. The features most vital to the definition of poetry is its unwillingness to be definite, well analyzed, or detailed down. Poets are parsimonious and unrelentingly significant in the way they spread out words. WILLIAMS PEN goes well beyond this, considering a word's emotive, sensitive qualities, its back-story, its melodious worth, its double-or triple-entendres, and even its spatial relationship of each and every pages of this book which is clearly and distinctly followed. A South African Convivio with Dante Literatureslight Publishing "Uncountable was the time I broke down and crumbled, You hold me and glue me back." Arcane is Swati Singh's first volume of poems. Her poems come to you like the fresh breeze of spring, tender as raindrops, but her powerful language and craftsmanship make you dwell in the reality of emotions. Her effort to reshape the world, as clouds do in wind, makes her poem profound and elevates its meaning to the next level. Her poems reveal a cavernous connection with nature and an appreciation for human emotions. In this book, you will find poems written over a long time. She brings together themes as diverse as love, nostalgia, war, family and friends,

solitude and,
of course, the joy of being with nature.

productions have prominently figured at premier Western festivals, and popular Asian appropriations like Bollywood, manga and anime have created new kinds of globally accessible Shakespeare. Essays in this collection engage with the emergent critical issues: the efficacy of definitions of the 'local', 'global', 'transnational' and 'cosmopolitan' and of the liminalities and mobilities in between. They further examine the politics of 'West' and 'East', the evolving markers of the 'Asian' and the equation of the 'glocal' with the 'Asian'; they attend to performance and archiving protocols and bring the current debates on translation, appropriation, and world literature to speak to the concerns of global and transnational Shakespeare. These investigations analyse recent innovative Asian theatre productions, popular cinematic and manga appropriations and the increasing presence of Shakespeare in the Asian digital sphere. They provide an Asian standpoint and lens in rereading the processes of cultural globalisation and the mobilisation of Shakespeare. feature of love is that it is of saintly nature. Love is just a word until someone comes along and gives it a meaningful definition. Love exists in different forms: like affection, adoration, friendship, lust, passion and fondness. Often, yielding words of love can easily melt the toughest heart and make anyone highly romantic and blissful. Not only that, our relationships would surely spice up from the symphony of love. It is said that love can make a poet of you. We are the masters of our own fortune, future, destiny. We are the makers of our own fate. When we fully realize this reality, we will no longer search for the truth outside of ourselves. When we realize that we are fully responsible for our own actions and thoughts—and when we become overall responsible human beings—only then will we become ultimately and truly free. We need to stop escaping our liability as well as responsibility. Symphony of love will donate a heart's fulfillment of the most romantic thoughts in bountiful words, sentences and stanza's. True Poets may use to write so romantically so full of love even a dead heart will feel little better, good poetry is a created energy and enthusiasm to readers. Love conquers all.

 That's what we hear over and over again growing
 up. True love poetry comes from the heart: that is real feel from the heart
 When we play sacred , when we pretend to be pure, or
 bad we fail to do what we need to do,
 and instead
 we only do
 what we want to do—in other words,
 we only do
 what our mind and ego tells us to do.
 When we are ruled by our mind and ego

we are not free, no matter how much we pretend to be free. When we are ruled by our mind and ego we look for validity in the world of duality and
 always,
 always fall
 prey to sensuality. All of us are temporarily
 crazy, but some people are temporarily
 crazy all the time. When our mind is infected with ego we are temporarily
 when the ego-infection is removed with

wisdom we get over our ego and become better—we become ourselves. But some persons refuse to fasten down
 with themselves,
 and they
 remain victims
 of their ego.
 They go through this life following the whims of the mind and never gain any lasting stability. They die for their pleasures while living in pain, and in the end they lose everything
 and gain nothing. Our soul is the cause and the origin of body and mind of all living creatures. This standalone soul is the part of the entire universal spirit of we call God. Hence, the physical and entire functions of a person are governed exclusively by the soul.

Gag polyprotein contains the domains MA (matrix), p2, p10, CA (capsid), spacer peptide, NC (nucleocapsid), and PR (protease). Expression of Gag is sufficient for assembly and budding of virus-like particles (VLPs) from cells. Under certain conditions, Gag proteins purified from E. coli cells assemble into VLPs in vitro. For Gag proteins which include NC, nucleic acid is required. In vitro-made Gag particles have a morphology similar to that of as viral cores, as observed by transmission electron microscopy (TEM). I analyzed the roles of p10, CA, and NC during in vitro assembly.

 Mirza Ghalib's most popular poetry is the ghazals that he wrote in Urdu, or Rekhta, as it was called in his era. Ghalib's poetry not only mirrors his own life but also shows the trials and tribulations of the common man in those times, which resonate with us even today, making his poetry timeless. His poems depict love, loss, betrayal and tragedy, and such wide-ranging concerns that every reader finds it relatable. The sophistication of Ghalib's Shayari is apparent not just in the language and rhythmic quality of his poetry but also in his khayal, or imagination, and themes. He expresses himself in the simplest words, and his thoughts echo that of the reader. Wit and sarcasm remain beautifully woven in matters of heartbreak, despair, and philosophy, making Mirza Ghalib and his poetry immortal. This book also contains chapters on Urdu Poetry, a Timeline, Urdu Poetry & Literary Movements, Forms & Structure of Urdu Poetry, and a short biography of Mirza Ghalib, along with a selection of 50 popular couplets from
